SATURDAY, - . - - Jan. 25, 1868.

Bouvin and Hen Samers - We have often referred to the distressing fact that the streets, especially the sidewalks, of Rolivar, were shamefully neglected, more so than any other place in the State of equal wealth and number of inhabitants, and on one or two then the county site of Hardin county. In occasions called particular attention to certain crossings and foot-paths that were, at times, almost impassable. Again we refer to the deplerable condition of Water street Legislature of the State, which position he and the sidewalk from the Presbyterian Church to the violnity of the residence of Rev. W. O. Gray. During the past week, it is a notorious fact, along the walk referred will and second; he was repeatedly elected to, the mud has been at least six or seven inches deep by the cow mark in front of the ble service to his State and county. If the funds at the disposal of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen are not sufficient to pay for the needed repairs and the putting down of durable cypress plants for pedestrians to walk on, they should as the like officials do elsewhere, devise some lawful means to meet the pressing demand. At this time, the sidewalks of Bolivar are a diagrace to every man within the corporate limits. Let the property-holders meet the demands of the City Council, be what they may, each neighbor encourage neighbor, and pal church had been pronounced by the Rev all go to work with an eye single to the task of at least making such improvements upon the sidewalks as will enable persons to go from door to door without "sloshing about" in mud and water that is over shoe-mouthdeep. As long as men wear boots, they can stand the mud and water, but the wives, daughters and lady-friends of our citizens are the sufferers. We venture to say that a lady or school girl has not walked a street inthis place for the last week without getfing of its oldest and best citizens; his family a and water. It is hoped that the Board of Mayor and Aldermen will take the matter in hand and see that the sidewalks are reclaimed. Such action would meet with the approbation of every sensible person.
